FIRE GUTS FURNITURE FACTORY HERE; DESTROYS SOUTH LANGHORNE BARN

BLOOM FURNITURE MFG. CO. AND SUPERIOR ZINC CORP. PLANTS' LOSS ESTIMATED AT $50,000; ALL BRISTOL FIRE CO.'S SUMMONED, AS BURLINGTON COMPANIES STAND BY

Two firemen suffer finger injuries — Hose lines become charged and electric lines are ordered cut — Interior of Bloom Building, roof, walls, contents of offices of Superior Zinc Corp. and Records Believed Entirely Destroyed — Flames Discovered by Joseph Salyk, En Route to His Employment at Superior Zinc Plant.

Fire this morning gutted completely the two-story brick building with a one-story brick extension occupied by The Bloom Furniture Manufacturing Co., and the offices of Superior Zinc Corp., Radcliffe and Monroe streets. The interior of the building, roof, rear wall, and the contents, it is believed, are a total loss.

The offices of Superior Zinc Corp., along with all records of the corporation, were also believed to be entirely destroyed.

While it was impossible to get an accurate estimate of the loss this morning, it is believed that it will approximate $50,000.

The origin of the fire was in the southeast corner which was ablaze when firemen arrived at the scene.

Nine firemen suffered minor injuries. Lawrence McGlynn sustained a cut finger in handling a hose nozzle, and Russell Hellings also was cut on the finger. McGlynn was treated by Dr. H. R. Giordano, Dorrance and Radcliffe streets, while Hellings was treated at the ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad which was at the scene. Others treated by the Rescue Squad are: Norman Hetherington, Raymond Tomlinson, W. Smith, Howard Hellings, Michael Chichiletti, Cornelius Chichiletti, W. J. Albright.

The flames, when first seen by Joseph Salyk, 284 Hayes street, who is employed by the Superior Zinc Corp., were leaping through the roof and curling into the heavy downpour of rain. Salyk, who was en route to work at the time, called to his foreman. Firemen were summoned and upon arrival soon realized that they had a big fire to battle. The first alarm was struck at 6.03 and then two others in quick succession. This brought out all of the available fire apparatus from both the Bristol Consolidated Department and the four volunteer companies. The alarm struck out at 8.35.

Chief Clifford Hagerman called Burlington Fire Department, and asked if it could assign apparatus and men to take up duty at the fire station here as a protection to the rest of the community. Chief Van Sciver of Burlington responded with 18 men, one pumper, hose truck, chemical truck and a chief's car. Chief Hagerman then assigned some Bristol firemen to duty at the fire station to guide the Burlington crews if alarms were received from other sections of the community.

The flames are their way through the building rapidly and the heavy downpour of rain did not in the least affect them. The fire started in a section of the building used for varnishing furniture, but it is said that no work had been done in this department for several days.

The flames gained such headway that the roof soon fell in and sparks shot up into the air. Chief L. J. Jones with the Bristol police, and Capt. J. S. Lynn, of Bristol's Special Police, threw a guard around the entrances and blocked traffic through the streets where hose lines and apparatus were located.

The Bloom Co. located here about a year ago. It is conducted by Theodore Bloom who was associated with his father in the furniture manufacturing business in Frankford. Bloom did not arrive at the scene and was unaware of the fire until after eight o'clock.

The main brick building is about 125 by 75 feet, and the two-story portion is occupied by the Bloom Co. It is the third big fire at the building, as there were two fires during its occupancy by French-Wolf Paint Co., the last one being June 1, 1939.

VETO OF CASE BILL

The veto of the Case Bill by President Truman is one of the most cowardly and ill-advised steps ever taken by an American President. It is a complete surrender to labor-czar bossism.

Perhaps the Case Bill was not perfect. But it would have offered a constructive opportunity to remedy far worse imperfections in the existing laws.

With it, some protection might have been afforded to the whole American people, the real victims while their nation is being torn apart by the power-tactics and politics of a combination of greedy labor bosses and equally small-time political hopefuls from Missouri.

The breakdown in production in this country since the end of war, traceable to strikes which in turn are traceable to the muddling of President Truman, already has cost this nation far in the billions of dollars both in delayed goods as well as wages and other earnings.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Government, which owns 89% of all American ships, is reported ready to negotiate a settlement with the maritime unions, probably forestalling the strike scheduled for Saturday. The President's fact-finding board ended hearings in the Hudson Tube tie-up, but there was little hope of a settlement.

Several moves, including a Congressional investigation of the Supreme Court, were under discussion following Justice Jackson's disclosure of the feud with Justice Black.

No progress has been made removing the differences among the Big Four, Secretary Byrnes said. He asked again for prayers that the conferences resuming in Paris on Saturday be successful, saying, "If we fail, it is a defeat for mankind."

President Truman named a Cabinet committee to assist him on the Palestine question. Mr. Byrnes, its chairman, said he would discuss with Britain the size and nature of any military aid this country might provide to implement the admission of 100,000 Jews.

Zionist organizations here accused Britain and France of complicity in the "escape" of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who was charged by an American member of the Anglo-American Committee with having conspired with the Nazis to murder millions of European Jews. Circumstantial reports said the Grand Mufti was in a villa outside Damascus. Italian monarchists battled the Naples police and tried to burn down the Communist party headquarters. Eight persons were killed and dozens injured. In Rome, republicans demanded the immediate proclamation of the republic, but King Humbert refused to leave the country.

General Mikhailovitch denied any sense of guilt at his trial for treason, saying he had established contact with the Germans and their puppets to lure them to join his guerrillas.

Azerbaijan has recognized the supremacy of the Iranian Government and "Premier" Pishavari will be appointed Governor General of the Province by Premier Ghavam.

Chinese Nationalists reopened their drive in Manchuria after the Communists reportedly had broken the truce. Simultaneously, leaders of both sides opened peace talks.

Some of the optimism disappeared from the Indian situation when Mohandas K. Gandhi indicated a crisis by saying "we are exploring every avenue to avoid a deadlock."

Little Theatre Group, Morrisville, Reorganizes

MORRISVILLE, June 12 — The local Little Theatre group which disbanded during the war has been reorganized.

Officers who have been re-elected are: Marcus Ketcham, president; Thomas J. Rohrer, vice-president; Miss Helen Ashbury, secretary; and Alvin R. Pratt, treasurer.

Three plays are being planned, the first to be given in November, on two nights.

A picnic has been scheduled for June 25, at the residence of Albert Klock, and at that time the business meeting will be continued.

President Ketcham plans to name committee members at the picnic. The Little Theatre will present a cash award of $10 to the Morrisville high school senior who is outstanding in English expression. The annual award will be presented at commencement on June 17 by Mr. Ketcham.

PRESENT AWARDS AS CLASS OF '46 HAS GRADUATION

Grundy Medal To Lois Hilbert, the First Honor Student

PUPILS PARTICIPATE

A Feature of The Evening is Presentation of "New Horizons"

Commencement exercises of the class of 1946, Bristol high school, were held last evening in the Grand Theatre Awards and diplomas were presented to the graduating students and Honor Society members of the class.

The invocation was by the Rev. Richard R. Gay, Hulmeville, after which Henry Black, president of the class, extended greetings. Henry Black said: "On behalf of the class of 1946 it gives great pleasure to welcome you to this 63rd commencement of Bristol high school. Our class is the first in four years to graduate and enter a world at peace. No lessons we learn in school will help us, unless we learn quickly what must be done if we are to have a future at all. To have a future we must have peace, and to have peace, we must have world order."

Lois Hilbert, first honor student, spoke on "The Atomic Age Opens." She stated that on August 6, 1945, a bomb was dropped on the city of Hiroshima, and the atomic age opened. Man had divided the indivisible. The rise of civilization has been marked by man's ability to comprehend and overcome the secrets of nature and the problems of his environment. The individual atom has been split and mankind stands at the threshold of a future no one can foresee. The power behind the atomic bomb can be harnessed to produce the Utopia that men have dreamed of through centuries of war, depression, famine and disease. These wonders are, indeed, a challenge to our wisdom. We must use them to make a greater and more advanced civilization. Search for such knowledge and truth is man's vocation, and it will always be that truth which shall make men free. We need the same kind of thinking in managing men as we can show in managing atoms. The man has not yet been found who is fit to have absolute power over any other man. The group has not been found fit to rule another group. The only answer to this kind of world power is a new kind of world society in which

TWO ARE PERFECT IN ATTENDANCE FOR TERM

Mrs. C. Bloomfield, Tullytown Teacher, Given a Farewell Gift

GRADE YEAR BOOK

TULLYTOWN, June 12 — The teachers of Tullytown public school have released the names of pupils having perfect attendance for the month of May, and have also announced that Anthony Mazzocchi and Robert Cola are the only pupils maintaining a perfect record for the entire term.

Perfect attendance for May: Mrs. Chester Bloomfield, teacher of primary room; "Bobby" Walterick, Lorraine Cutchineal, Burton Fernandez, Harry Frazier, "Chris" Gibson, and Wayne Stake. Miss S. Elsie Ettinger, teacher of intermediate room; Mary Ann Green, Lester Brown, Donald Fernandez, James Rappo, Ralph Everk, and "Jack" Walterick. Mrs. George Colville, teacher of junior room; Jay Baker, "Teddy" Bodjuich, John Chase, David Gisson, John Gibson, Kenneth Stake, Joseph Termyna, Irene Banes, and Robert Cola.

The pupils of the school presented Mrs. Bloomfield with a wallet on closing day. Mrs. Bloomfield has resigned after serving for 19 years as teacher of the primary grades.

With the money made in the recent scrap paper drive the children purchased a phonograph and educational records for the school.

Another project undertaken by the sixth grade was the editing of a printed yearbook, complete with photographs of pupils of the school, class history, and articles by class members and teachers. The book is attractively bound in blue with gold lettering, and is the first book of this kind issued here, previous ones being mimeographed.

Guest of Honor at Affair Following Graduation

Miss Rosemary Hafele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hafele, was the guest of honor at a dinner on Sunday evening, following her graduation from the Nazareth Academy, Torresdale.

Those enjoying the affair were: Mrs. Herman Hafele, Mrs. Agnes Barford, Mrs. May Tribbett, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Doyno, Jack McClay, Mrs. Robert Smith, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hardy, Cornwells Heights, and Eugene Magill and Joanne Hafele, Croydon. Rosemary was presented with many gifts including a diamond ring from her parents, Rosemary, who completed the commercial course, is now employed at the Eddington Metal Specialties Co.

DORRANCE ST. WOMAN TRYING TO FIND SON

Vincent J. Deegan, Formerly of Army Medical Corps, Went To California

MISSING OVER 1 YEAR

With the whereabouts of one of her sons for the past year unknown to her, Mrs. Mary Deegan, 338 Dorrance street, has enlisted the aid of police and the Missing Person Bureau in an effort to locate him.

The missing young man is Vincent J. Deegan, who in March, 1945, was discharged from the U. S. Army Medical Corps in New York City. He spent two months at his home, leaving on May 30th, 1945, for New York, then Los Angeles, Cal., he planning to follow a beautiful course of study under a government plan after his release from the army.

According to Mrs. Deegan her son left New York City, wrote her a card from Chicago, Ill., while en route to the coast, then sent a card immediately upon arrival in Los Angeles. He informed that he had just reached his destination, and stated he would give his address as soon as he found a place to reside. That was the last she heard, states Mrs. Deegan, who believes that something has happened to Vincent as he had always been prompt in writing.

In August, 1945, Mrs. Deegan received a letter addressed to her son, Vincent, here, the letter being from J. C. Penny Co., Inc., San Francisco, the first asking Vincent to contact it for correction of dates on war bonds he had purchased.

Mrs. Deegan had reported to Bristol police last November that her son was missing, and since then contacted the Missing Persons Bureau and American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts in Los Angeles, but still no information has been received as to his whereabouts.

Vincent planned to send for additional clothing at his home here, but he has not written for it nor for war bonds he has at home, his mother states.

Three other young men from the Deegan household served in World War II. Vincent's brother, George Deegan, has been granted a discharge; and Earl Carr and John Dorton, two young men whom Mrs. Deegan raised, also served. The latter is still in the service.

Eighteen Complete Course St. Thomas School

CROYDON, June 12 — A group of eighteen boys and girls who successfully completed their eight years of grammar school were rewarded with diplomas on Sunday morning after the 9.30 o'clock Mass in the St. Thomas Aquinas R. C. Church.

The presentation was made by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Diamond and his assistant, Rev. Joseph Rodgers.

The altars of the church were beautifully decorated with pink gladioli and white baby's breath for the occasion. Ten small girls, Dolores Holmes, Kathleen Tryon, Janice Hamill, Elizabeth Donald, Margaret Gleason, Louise Haines, Rosalite Kunz, Margaret Maro, Francis Serchek and Mary Carlan held a baby blue ribbon entwined with daisies for the graduates to pass through. They formed a line at the altar railing to receive their diplomas.

Thomas Kelly and Mary Lou Magill were the recipients of the Religion Award for highest merit. Thomas Kelly was also presented with a perfect attendance certificate.

The girl graduates were attired in white organdy dresses with small white horsehair hats and each wore a red rose corsage. The boys wore white trousers with navy blue coats.

The list of graduates: Frances Foster, Mary Maurer, Mary Lou Magill, Stephanie Holoeton, Rose Gray, Joanne Hafele, Therese Lineman, Betty Schwendeman, Ronald Buterworth, Robert McClinton, Robert Lawler, Robert Smith, Joseph Enright, Charles Shade, William Tryon, Thomas Kelly, E. Collins and B. Shurr. The choir was composed of boys and girls of the school who sang the hymns: "Lord, I Give My Life," "Ave Maria," "Mother Dear Oh Pray for Me," and "Come My Child to Thee."

FLABBERMOUTH

A family row is getting up steam in the Democratic party. Cracks in the new deal hegemony will break wide open over none other than "Flabbermouth" Wallace, last of the Roosevelt new deal members of the cabinet and now Secretary of Commerce.

Wallace has been barnstorming, speaking to radical gatherings here and there. His mouthings make sense to the fellow travelers.

The radical unionists who have wrecked reconversion in the interest of Moscow like Flabbermouth. If Truman insists on saving a few pieces from the wreckage of strikes, the wreckers will go over to Wallace bag and baggage and boom him for President in 1948.

Wallace would be an ideal rallying point for the screwball element in the Democratic party or for a third-party movement by the same forces. Wallace has announced he is opposed to Truman's labor "policy." A few more cracks and he may be out of the cabinet, free to devote his full time to his real ambition, to be President of the United States.

ANOTHER DAY LOOMS

There is one factor in the political situation which has received little consideration. The administration, busy toadying to organized labor, has had no thought for a larger group of unorganized workers. The unions have 14 millions on their rolls—many of whom were forced to join because of the imposition of the closed shop upon industry by Roosevelt during the war. Workers outside union dominance total 40 millions.

In the past the larger group has taken a passive attitude toward politics, being perhaps evenly divided between the two major parties. Unrepresented at the White House, they have been the victims of union-inspired inflation.

Recently there have been indications these 40 millions are getting their hackles up and are determined upon a change. They have become incensed by the continuing strikes which have deprived them of motor cars, homes and even food. The extent to which they have become aroused bodes ill for Truman's 1948 ambitions.

It is now regarded as a certainty that the Democrats will lose control of the House of Congress this fall. The party may retain a majority in the Senate, but if so it will be a slim one, and a few sane Democrats joining up with the Republicans could change the situation in that body. The present Congress is definitely out from under union control. President Truman, always the politician, is jumping about like a victim of Saint Vitus dance.

Counter forces are moving in the nation which will bring a turn against domination of the lives of the people by organized minorities. Another and brighter day looms.

According to LaGuardia, the Little Dandelion, 60 per cent of the food served at banquets is wasted. What banquets?

VETO OF CASE BILL

The failure of our production has become a major factor in the unfortunate turn of world policy; with millions abroad looking in vain, not only for food, but for clothing, houses, motor transportation, farm equipment, and so on down the line, we are losing all the international leadership we once held.

Instead of the greatest boom in history, which should have given us at least ten prosperous years, we are edging closer and closer to a panic which might be more disastrous than the Depression, and during which foreign competition might succeed in stealing nearly all our proper markets.

The overbearing of ruthless labor tyrants has produced a series of strikes which were not against, not management, but the American people and their government. President Truman has backed these up in all save one instance, where obviously he merely lost his temper.

Every attempt by every agency to uphold the rights of the whole people against the demands of these organized minorities has been thwarted. Public indignation drove through both Houses of Congress the ill-fated Case Bill, in an effort to curb the trend towards a labor-union dictatorship.

Contrary to the President's implications, the Case Bill was not a half-baked scheme cooked up on the spur of the moment and jammed through by a semi-hysterical Congress.

Every measure in it had been considered for years, and every one was aimed at a direct, proven and long-standing abuse by labor leaders.

The imperfections in the Bill, if any existed, were trivial and insignificant by comparison with the wholly ineffective and top-heavy structure of laws under which labor dictators have been sheltered doing the damage they have done to the nation during the last several months.

For it to have been vetoed under any circumstances is almost incredible; for it to have been vetoed by a President who demanded the right of jailing, fining and drafting into the army, to work at bayonet point, those who talked back to him personally, is fantastic.

Yet the bill is dead. The work of the two Houses of Congress to carry out their Constitutional function of laying down policies to meet emergencies, has gone for naught. The overwhelming vote by which the measure was passed was not enough to save it.

Politics—the courting by the President of the revolution-bound radicals who are back of the present "labor movement"—triumphed over common-sense and national welfare.

It now is virtually impossible for Congress to pass any of the much-needed labor laws to meet the national emergency.

Over-riding of the veto will be impossible, not so much for lack of votes but because the White House band has tight hold on the machinery through which Congress functions and can block the majority will with it.

The President's own labor plan was purely a scheme to protect him personally—it had no bearing on the causes of labor trouble, made no effort to speed collective bargaining in private industry, and merely proposed to punish, with a savagery and vindictiveness beyond parallel, labor chiefs or labor unions which refused to yield to his one-man orders.

If the bill were passed, it would serve no useful purpose in speeding up desperately needed production. Its effect probably would be the reverse. Labor itself is bitterly against it, and has good reason to be.

One obvious defect is that any labor boss with the key to the side door of the White House could use the law, once enacted and signed, to destroy any other labor union of which he was jealous. Had there been such a law in the past, Sidney Hillman could have used his White House connections to put John L. Lewis down for the count—or Lewis, during one of his periods of supremacy at the White House, to put the CIO out of existence.

One fact now will be clear and unmistakable—as a sort of silver lining to an otherwise exceedingly dark cloud:

For all further labor trouble, which might have been solved through some of the provisions of the Case Bill, President Truman has taken full responsibility.

During the excitement of the further labor crises which now appear inevitable, let us not forget where to put the blame—let's not forget whose hand held the hand that signed the veto of the one serious attempt of the past twelve years to control unruly labor bosses, the Case Bill!

The Bloom Co. made furniture such as vanity benches, book-cases, night tables, gun racks and various other articles. Much of the stock was finished and placed in cardboard cartons ready for shipment. The Bloom Co. manufactures "Puritan City Products."

The rear roof fell with a thud and the rear wall collapsed. Firemen working on the roof of the annex were ordered off when it was found that the hose lines were charged. The firemen had to cut the electric lines as the charged hose lines were becoming dangerous. Chief Hagerman in a number of instances ordered his men not to go into the building because of the danger of falling walls. Despite this, the firemen sat upon window sills and even ventured inside to get at the flames to better advantage.

Firemen are at a loss to account for the cause of the fire. Last night at 9:30 an alarm was sounded from Box 315 at the No. 1 plant of Fleetwings. When the firemen arrived the box had not been opened and they attributed the alarm to the thunder storm which was raging at the time.

The canteen of America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. served coffee to the firemen.

The building is owned by the Superior Zinc Corporation whose loss is the greatest.

When Mr. Bloom arrived at the scene he said that he was unable to estimate his loss and was not sure as to the amount of insurance.

Joseph Alta, Jr., one of the early arrivals at the scene, told Chief Hagerman that he thought he heard an explosion at about the spot where the fire started.

Firemen put pumps into operation and laid thousands of feet of hose lines which covered the streets in the vicinity. Chief Hagerman and his men took every precaution to prevent spread of the flames to the big sprawling plant of Fleetwings No. 1 and the Manhattan Soap Company which are immediately adjacent.

all nations work together for the development of a great and good atomic age."

The next one to speak was the second honor student, Anna Franceschini, who spoke on "U. N.—An Instrument for Universal Co-operation." She said the plan for world peace is a sound one, but it can be made to succeed only if the big powers involved will relinquish all selfish desires for world domination. The key to the success of the U. N. lies in the hands of the big three, for in them is vested most of the power of directing the U. N. It is their duty to see to it that the smaller nations are given the opportunity to be heard. It is the people who determine the great social trends that carry a nation forward to the more perfect achievement of justice and liberty or barbarism and brutality. The men and women of the world can be brought to work together within the framework of the United Nations. That is what we must strive for and the United States should take a leading part. The smaller nations of the world look to America for assurance of justice. The people of the world must be taught to think in terms of international order. If the United Nations can succeed in making the people world conscious, the fear of a third world war can be dispelled, and the dreams of a one world can become a reality."

The third honor student, Marie Ostrowski, spoke on "Education in an International World." Miss Ostrowski said in part: "For a century and a half education has been used in all countries as an instrument of nationalistic policy. In all countries children have left school with a knowledge of their nation's military heroes and with almost complete ignorance of the men and women who have contributed to humanity, ideals in religion, literature and science. The guidance of the will and desires of the peoples of the world must begin in the schools of each nation."

Two songs were sung by the high school choir after which Raymond C. Sidorosky read the Mothers' Association prize essay on "Compulsory Military Training." "New Horizons" was presented with introduction by Lorraine Hopkins, Joseph Indelicato, Helen Welker and William Meyers. Commentators were: Mary Brennan, Lewis Iannucci, Ada Harbers, Charles Margerum, Barbara Mager, Richard Neitzel, Florence Paletta, Francis Danis, and William Sondersky; responses, Vincent Feole, June Siler, Harold McClintic, Barbara Virgulti and Marie Williamson.

Henry Black presented the class gift to Earl McEuen, president of the school board.

Mothers' Association awards were announced by Mrs. Russell Crosby as follows:

FLEETWINGS SCORES A BIG SURPRISE WIN

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 12.—The Fleetwings team scored the most surprising win of the season last evening on the Bensalem school field as it won over Badenhausen, 7-6, in a Suburban League contest.

A five-run rally in the last frame by Baddies, featured by a home run from the bat of "Norm" Tettemer, featured the tilt.

"Sammy" Kershaw was the winning moundman while the defeat was charged to "Lenny" Wolvin. Dean relieved Wolvin in the fourth.

HIBOES GO INTO 2ND PLACE; BEAT R. & H.

The Hibernians went into second place in the Bristol Suburban League by registering a 5-1 triumph over the Rohm and Haas team on Leedom's field.

The bat of "Herb" Yates had much to do with the Hib's triumph. Yates had three singles and a home run in four times up. For Rohm and Haas, "Wally" DeWitt and "Len" Simons had a pair of hits each.

The losers gave poor fielding support to "Len" Simons while the Hiboes' hurler, "Jimmy" Hopkins, had near-perfect support. Hopkins gave up six hits.

Legion IX Jumps Back Into The Win Column

LANGHORNE, June 12.—The Bristol Legion jumped back into the win column of the Suburban League by scoring a 10-8 win over the Langhorne Legion last evening on Playwicky field.

The Langhorne team rallied to score three runs in the final inning but "Jake" Accardi relieved Ashton and Clark pitched for Langhorne with the former getting the defeat.

"Charlie" Kohler and "Silver" Sagolla led the batters with three out of four each. One of Kohler's drives was a triple.

Barbetta's Home Run Big Aid to St. Ann's

"Bert" Barbetta's home run with the bags loaded aided St. Ann's to score ten runs in the first inning as the "Saints" swamped the Schutte-Koerting nine, 15-4, last evening on the Maple Beach diamond.

The first three St. Ann's batters got on base and then Barbetta delivered his hard smash to center field.
